Hi all,

Good afternoon. I have been tracking the weather news out there and it looks all bad. Wishing safe travels and safe work to your crews.

If it is all possible, I think forward progress with another contractor would be good. Now that the damage has been disclosed, there is definitely great concern from the Tribes and SHPO about additional damage to the sites.

Thanks,
g

Hi Kevin, I didn't see Tanya and Greg added to your last email so am adding them now.
Last week, Jacobs obtained a quote from a local firm (Trafficade) to install fencing in the priority areas but we pulled back knowing that CNR was able to jump on it. Given that CNR has been diverted, would UP like us to reach out to that firm to see if they're available to install fencing earlier than 8/30?

Alan and Glennda, any thoughts given how sensitive the timeline is here?

Kevin, re: the patrol route, I sent you a kmz of our proposed route last Friday. The route is all drivable, no walking necessary. Let us know if you need any more clarity on that.

(adding in Tanya and Greg to the email)

Maggie:

We just got off the phone with our engineering team and CNR regarding the fencing plan. Due to hurricane Hilary, there are major outages and disruptions to rail traffic in California affecting critical interstate commerce routes. Most of CNR's staff and pretty much every railroad maintenance contractor in the local region has been dispatched to California to begin to put the infrastructure back together.

CNR has committed to bring some staff back and will begin the work on Wednesday, 8/30/23. I know that is not what was discussed in our meeting, but the circumstances have changed due to the hurricane. If they can improve on that timeline, we will certainly update you and mobilize in as soon as possible, but that is what we can commit to right now. We understand there will have to be another bird survey completed to clear the work.

In the meantime, we will begin the security service to ensure that the property is being monitored daily. Ray, can you please provide an update on that schedule? If I am not mistaken, we are also waiting on a security detail from Jacobs providing us locations where security can drive and where they must walk in.

Hi Kevin, any update on when monitors will be needed for fencing installation and/or demobilization? We have them on stand-by so would appreciate any updates you can share.

Thank you,

No, we will not need it Monday. Our Supply dept is having a meeting with CNR tomorrow and the earliest they could start is Tuesday. I will keep you posted on the details after our meeting as soon as it is over.

Hi Kevin and Ray, can you please let us know ASAP if CNR plans to begin fencing on Monday, and what time a monitor is needed on-site?
