Good morning, Alan:

We received a report from a local in Clayton County, Iowa that there might be some work associated with railway construction that involves potential blasting near precontact sites/burial mounds. The only project we have in our office that this might be is the one submitted as R&C 211100058 with the summary of "CP has filed an application with the STB to acquire KCS, creating the first railroad to connect Canada, the United States, and Mexico. Part of this undertaking will include the construction of new siding and siding extensions at 8 locations in Iowa, within the railroad right-of-way." Specifically, this would be in Buena Vista Township of Clayton County near Guttenberg, Turkey River segment MP 71.

Can you please double check to see if additional work outside of the original scope is being conducted along this segment? I wish I had more information to provide, but this is what I currently have.

With kind regards,
