Dear Madame / Sir:

Thank you for the opportunity to submit a personal nomination. Included is a bio of myself and information relating to our company.

Lincoln consists of three principal divisions:

1. Lincoln Energy Solutions, which supplies marketing, trading and logistics of renewable fuels, including over 500 million gallons of ethanol;
2. Lincoln Terminal Holdings, which owns and operates petroleum and high-volume railroad transload terminals in the Eastern US; and
3. Team Logistics Company, a common carrier JV company that operates 90 truck units making deliveries of renewable fuels and refined petroleum products in select markets.

As such Lincoln is a shipper/payor of freight, transloader, and truck operator involved with multiple modes of transportation and further operates a pipeline for rail-to-pipeline movements of ethanol to a terminal facility making Lincoln uniquely qualified to represent this industry segment.

If I can help with any additional information, please let us know.

Sincerely,

Larry G. Burgamy, Jr.
CEO

Larry G. Burgamy, Jr.

President

Larry is a partner and CEO with Lincoln based in Greenville, SC. He brings a wealth of product marketing, transportation and terminal storage operations throughout the Southeast to his leadership role at Lincoln.

With over twenty years of experience in the oil industry, Larry began his career with Boardman Petroleum, Inc. after earning an A. B. economics degree at the University of Georgia in 1995. Larry served in managing roles with supply and distribution as well as sales and marketing for a 75-unit Southeast convenience store chain and terminal company with nine facilities. These successful companies were sold in 1998 and 2004 respectively to Tosco and Kinder Morgan, at which time, Larry then transitioned to Kinder Morgan in 2004. Larry served as Director, Business Development for Kinder Morgan's 35-unit Southeast terminal and pipeline network spanning the Gulf Coast, East Coast and Florida for nine years. In 2013, Larry transitioned to Lincoln applying his experience and background with transportation, storage, marketing and asset development
