The Great Lakes Basin application was submitted without key pieces of information. GLBT previously was unable to complete other paperwork on time. GLBT has proposed a by-pass that simply moves trains from one over-crowded area to another overcrowded area in the same region. GLBT has issued statements to the public that have shown a willful disregard for the process. All of these factors indicate this company does not have the ability to operate a project of the scale they are proposing. The GLBT application must be rejected as they have clearly shown once again they do not have the business skills needed to operate a successful business. Public necessity includes the applicants ability to successfully operate a business and GLBT can not even successfully submit an application.
