I am asking that the Great Lakes Basin request to keep their investors confidential be denied. This is information the public has a right to know, we have a right to vet the people seeking to construct the largest rail project in over 100 years.

There is no public necessity for this project, one aspect they must meet to prove public necessity is that there is not adequate rail service available to the public in the area they wish to construct in. In this case there is more than adequate transportation service for the public in the affected areas, and their claims that there is inadequate service to trains not originating here is questionable. Any excess trains could be re-routed to other areas, the public in the affected area has adequate services available, and the railroads do as well, they just choose to overcrowd the Chicago market. From a pure public stand-point service is =more than adequate in the affected areas.
