RE: FD 36137

The Nickel Plate railroad and Fair Train should remain in existence, and NOT be converted to a walking trail. The area has many places to walk and I'm in favor of walking. For many years the train has been a popular way to travel to the State Fair from Noblesville and Fishers. To force people to use private cars instead is going against the trend for mass transportation. The railroad is also an important tourist attraction for Central Indiana. My children and now grandchildren have enjoyed riding on it. The use of vintage cars and engines only serves to enhance the experience. It does not however preclude the possibility of using modern trains at some point in the future, but it would if the tracks were torn up.

I certify that these comments have been provided to the Applicant's Attorney of Record via email. /S/
