I oppose the order for protection to obscure the investors for the GLBT railway.
If this is really on the up and up and is a good thing for the public and the economics of the region, then, all parties involved should be trumpeting their involvement. In hiding them, there is most certainly something wrong with the investors or the truthfulness and effects of the project. By hiding the names we have no way to assess the ability of these partners to run a railway or their true intentions for the project.

Sincerely,
Timothy W. Ryan
