In case you did not know, as it appears the Great Lakes Basin people do not know, agriculture is an industry. The GLBT application stating they are not building adjacent to any industry is, like the rest of their information, inaccurate. GLBT seeks to build over existing profitable industries and this can not be allowed, the public is not served by this. Millions of dollars will be lost by the construction of this line and Prime Farmland will be destroyed. The US Department of Agriculture has as one of it's missions the protection of Prime Farmland, this land is the most fertile of all lands and it's preservation is in the public's interest. The need for this land to feed our nation far outweighs the need to move trinkets and baubles faster through the Chicago market.
