To Mr. Joshua Wayland,

This is three pictures taken by a Mrs. Carlson in June of 2004 in which a railroad employee is seen dumping something along the tracks. She made several contacts with DHEC according to Jim McDonald which DHEC denied. One problem: They called Mrs. Carlson's name before she was identified as the picture taker, indicating that they had the information ahead of time. There is also a former employee of the RR who claims to have seen a RR car with a hole cut in the floor and RR employees dumping barrels contaminates on the tracks.

If DHEC and the STB are worried about getting permission to test, they could get a court order for suspected contamination. I am sure that any competent judge would allow the test.

Isn't it peculiar that all this information is surfacing now without the help of DHEC.
