I've made comments before on this line and I just have a few more thoughts due to the huge financial crisis in our government today and then plus the financial tax burden that would be placed upon us if the CN National Railway acquisition goes through would be just so monumental we would just be drowning in taxes because you know CN will not pay what they should be paying for all the mitigation, crossings, and everything. We're gonna drown. Please help us. I talked to many people about this situation and they always say, 'Well I don't know why I should bother, it's not gonna make any kind of a difference anyway', and I just get so sad when I hear people say that and a lot of people say that, until I talk them into trying at least making some kind of comment about this. Is our system broken down that much that the people have lost hope or think they can't do anything? But we can do something, and the STB can do something too by stopping this acquisition. We can't do it, we cannot afford it right now, we need, we need those rails to accommodate passenger lines, which can get us more freely around this area without congestion, but at least would be hauling people around, instead of waste chemicals, and radiation, and whatever. I want my family to be happy and prosperous, and not be killed by any trains in the area. Thank you
