Draft Environmental Impact Statement for the Proposed Canadian National Railway Company Acquisition of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railway Company

Date: Sept. 11, 2008

We must do whatever is possible to unsmar train traffic in the Chicago and suburban area. Business depends on good transportation. The purchase of the EJ&E tracks by the Canadian National railroad and the rerouting of trains around the city is good business.

Trains of course are also a nuisance when they block traffic, make noise, and pollute with diesel fumes.

0 Currently 4.1 million people in 60 communities are subjected to these railroad nuisances. The Canadian National plan would be more efficient in moving trains around Chicago and would subject 2.6 million less people and 30 less communities to the nuisances of train traffic. The CN plan is good for people and business.
