How will CN's proposed acquisition of the EJ&E impact you?

My family lives approximately 1/4 mile southeast of the EJ&E rail line. CN's proposed acquisition of the EJ&E and the resulting increase in rail traffic will impact my family in the following manner:

- 1.) Even with the trains not blowing their horns, the noise from the engines and the subsequent cars can be clearly heard from within my home. Increased freight traffic means increased noise.
- 2.) My children need to cross the EJ&E for their elementary, middle school, and high school education.
They take the bus in the morning and either I or my wife pick them up generally between 5 & 6 pm. Since we both work south of the tracks and live south of the tracks, while their schools are North of the tracks, this translates into many crossings every week - not just for after-school pickup, but for their many activities as well.
