I live in Frankfort, Il. and I can't believe when I drive down Pfeiffer + Gauk Trail how often I am starting to see freight trains that seem never ending. You allow enough time to get to destinations but some of these trains have carts that you look and it seems there is no end to them. Been late many a times due to these trains either ~~[illegible]~~ too long or ~~[illegible]~~ turtleing.

Something needs to get done + put a limit on these trains for travel time or how many carts they should have on one single trip.

I dread the sight of a train coming when I dont make it on time before the ramps come down.

I know I'll be late aggravated + dealing with drivers from all angles, trying to cut in because they were also tired of the wait.

I have had trains that go way beyond 10 minutes. That to me is a bit outrageous + way too long.

Something needs to get done.

YOUR INPUT IS IMPORTANT!
