Draft Environmental Impact Statement for the Proposed Canadian National Railway Company Acquisition of the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railway Company

Date: 8-25-08

How much energy has CN put into the improvements needed to make railroad traffic on their existing railroad lines more more efficiently?

If this purchase is vetoed ~~it~~ wouldn't CN have to improve something with the way they handle traffic flow?

I get the impression that CN isn't doing an effective job of managing railroad traffic. Maybe they need to simply look at how they route their cars to avoid the so called traffic jams in the railroad switching yards.
