Dear Victoria Rutson, STB:

I spent a week in 2012 in Helena to oppose Otter Creek and/or ALL coal mining expansion there and everywhere. If humanity is to have any chance of survival this and much more must have negative impacts mitigated.

The ONLY way to do this is leave it in the ground. The EIS draft we seen is a joke.

Five out of four industry sycophants disagree.

I wonder how much influence on this study is industries? The double talk, inane reasoning, and minimizing is a little despicable coming from a body that is supposed to be unbiased.

I marched every day in 2012 and made the Bellingham presence prominent. I am appalled that this fight is still being had.

Stop It All Ready as everyone World Wide must or we will go extinct.

In 'Nature Bats Last', Guy McPherson presents data saying it's too late already.

So instead of attempting to mitigate, we make it worse.

It will take many decades to get carbon levels down even with world wide efforts.

The death sentence is already in place
This project is one of the final nails in the coffin. Enough Already!!!!
Reject All permits. Respectfully, m Waschke
