We live in a condo unit in the Shorely Woods complex about 25 feet from the EJE Railroad tracks smack-dab midway between 2 train crossings — the Haugh St (Rt 59) and Northwest Highway (Rt 14) crossings. When a train goes by and blasts its horn at each crossings, it causes us to jump out of our chairs. Extra trains will keep us jumping all day and night depending on when the trains will run. Isn't there some law about disturbing the peace?

There is only one way to get in and out of the Shorely Woods complex and that's from and to Rt. 14. Traffic on Rt 14 is bad enough but when a train holds up traffic on Rt. 14, traffic is at a standstill way past Rt. 59, and it's nearly impossible to leave the complex. As for turning left, forget it!

With the Union Pacific tracks & extra trains on the EJE tracks running through Barrington, traffic on Rt. 59 will be backed up for miles. If this sale goes through, the vibrant village of Barrington might just as well close up its doors and die. Is this what we want for this community?
