Thanks for letting me know.

I look forward to assisting ever how I can. I am quite familiar with the archaeology along all three Utah routes.

Hi. I wanted to reach out to you to inform you that there are no longer any Colorado alternatives associated with the proposed Uinta Basin Railway Project being carried forward into the EIS process. The Craig Route, once considered during 2019, has been dropped from consideration due to a variety of factors, and the three remaining build alternatives are all located in Utah.

We appreciate your participation in the project to date. If you have any questions, or would like to stay informed about the project, please contact me.

Thanks very much.
