I am against the acquisition of the CN to purchase the EJ&E. Traffic would become a nightmare if you increase that many trains without providing for overpasses that would not impact traffic. You can't get through the town of Plainfield as it is now, and other towns of course are affected, but here, if I have a heart attack and there is a train coming, I'm dead. I think that is pretty important to me and my husband, and anyone, whether it be heart attack or simply your child is hurt. You cannot let this go through unless they can prove that no impact will be made on the traffic patterns, and I don't think they can do that. Thank you.
