YAKIMA INTERURBAN LINES ASSOCIATION - ADVERSE ABANDONMENT
in YAKIMA COUNTY, WASHINGTON

REPLY TO JOINT PROTEST AND COMMENTS

DISCUSSION

1. Kershaw has properly sought abandonment of the line.

Kershaw has properly sought abandonment of that section of line which crosses its property. The federal statutes provide that a railroad may seek abandonment approval. See 49 U.S.C. § 10903. However, there is no express provision allowing for an individual with a reversionary interest in the property subject to the railroad's right-of-way to seek abandonment of the lines. Nonetheless, an individual may seek an adverse abandonment, but generally must follow the rules and regulations required of a rail carrier.

A railroad may "abandon any part of its railroad lines," 49 U.S.C. § 10903(d)(1). Thus, Kershaw has sought only to abandon that portion of the line that crosses its property. Yakima County may seek to abandon the remainder of the line if it chooses.

PROTEST AND COMMENTS-1

2. The plan to rehabilitation the Naches Line is neither economically feasible nor practicable.

When assessing whether the public convenience and necessity permit abandonment, the Board focuses a finding of public convenience or necessity involves balancing competing interests: "[t]he benefits to particular communities and commerce of continued operation must be weighed against the burden thereby imposed upon other commerce." Colorado v. United States, 271 U.S. 153, 168, 46 S.Ct. 452, 456, 70 L.Ed. 878, 885 (1926). E.g., State of Texas v. United States, 642 F.2d 87, 90 (5th Cir.1981) ; State of Nebraska v. United States, 255 F.Supp. 718, 721 (D.Neb.1966). "The [Board's] role in abandonment proceedings is to balance the immediate and local interests of the community and the shippers against the broader public interest in freeing interstate commerce from undue burdens." State of Texas v. United States, 642 F.2d 87, 90 (5th Cir.1981).

Generally, the Board denies an adverse abandonment application if there is potential for future operation on the line and the carrier has taken reasonable steps to attract traffic. Consolidated Rail Corp. v. I.C.C., 29 F.3d 706, 711 (D.C.Cir. 1994) (citing Order, 8 I.C.C.2d at 783). In determining whether a proposed plan shows potential for future operation the Board looks to whether the plan is economically feasible and practicable. Id. at 711 (citations omitted). In this case, Yakima County's plan for future operation is neither economically feasible nor practicable.

First, Yakima County's acquisition of the line is conditioned upon obtaining a release of approximately $750,000 worth of liens. The Washington Department of Transportation has stated that "[s]ubject to appropriation from the Legislature and mutually agreeable contractual arrangements" it could provide an "estimated $200,000 in financial assistance . . . to clear the public and private liens." (Declaration of Stephen Anderson, p. 1). The Washington Department of Transportation, which holds the largest lien on the property, has not committed to release its lien. Notably, the State was offered the Naches line in exchange for a release of lien; it refused. (Declaration of Robert Kershaw, Ex. C, p. 19).

Second, the Washington Department of Transportation estimated that "subject to appropriation and mutually agreeable contractual arrangements", it could provide an "estimated $300,000 to complete rehabilitation of the Naches Branch." (Declaration of Stephen Anderson, p. 1). The amount of money hoped to be appropriated falls far short of that required to rehabilitate the line. An extensive study on the costs to rehabilitate the line was prepared for the Washington State Transportation Department in April 2001. At that time the estimate to rehabilitate the line was approximately $2 million dollars. (Declaration of Robert Kershaw, Ex. F, 00012). In the three years since the study was completed, no improvements or maintenance has occurred on the line. It is difficult to imagine that the line now requires $1.7 million dollars less rehabilitation than it did in 2001 or that the 2001 study could have been $1.7 million dollars off in its rehabilitation estimate.

Although the Rail Commenters envision that sufficient funds will be available from the Washington Department of Transportation and other unknown third parties, no funds have actually been promised or acquired, from any source, to date. (Joint Protest, p. 5)

Third, there are two shippers who have expressed an interest in restoring traffic on the rail line. However, the fact that two businesses would like to ship by rail, is only half of the equation. Effective shipment requires both a shipper and a receiver. There is no evidence that there are any buyers who are ready and able to receive shipments by rail. The estimated business revenue of this line is marginal at best. The shippers' contention that traffic on the rail line will increase once their businesses grow is speculative and also unsupported by any evidence. Speculation that additional traffic might materialize in the future is not sufficient to support a claim of potential future utility of the line. Moreover, failure of the line to carry any traffic for almost a decade supports the argument that there is no call for continued rail service. See Borough of Columbia v. Surface Transp. Bd., 342 F.3d 222 (3rd Cir. 2003).

The County and local governments have grappled with the issue of what to do with the Naches Line for years and have not been able to come up with a workable plan. The current rehabilitation plan is wildly contingent and wholly under-funded. Yakima County's plan for future operation of the Naches Line is little more than theoretical. With no way to implement the plan, it is not economically feasible or practicable.

3. If the County, or any other entity, wants to restore rail service, it should acquire the line through an offer of financial assistance.

If the goal of the Yakima County and the other Rail Commenters is to restore rail service, then offers of financial assistance should be accepted on the line. The OFA provisions of the statute guarantee any "financially responsible" party the right to acquire a rail line to provide for continued rail service. 49 U.S.C. § 10904. Under § 10904(c), a prospective OFA purchaser "may offer to subsidize or purchase the railroad line that is subject of" an abandonment application.

A party must file its OFA within ten days of a decision from the Board granting a petition for abandonment or exemption. 49 U.S.C. § 10904(c); 49 C.F.R. § 1152.27(c)(1)(i)(B). After a prospective purchaser has "offered financial assistance regarding that part of the railroad line to be abandoned or over which rail transportation is to be discontinued," 49 U.S.C. § 10904(d)(1) obligates the Board to decide if the prospective purchaser is "financially responsible." Under 49 U.S.C. § 10907(a). If a party files a timely OFA, and the Board finds that the party is "financially responsible," then the Board must postpone the abandonment of the line. 49 U.S.C. § 10904(d)(2).

A governmental body such as Yakima County is presumed to be financially responsible. 49 U.S.C. § 10907(a). Therefore, the question will not be whether Yakima County is a financially responsible party opposing abandonment, but whether the County can provide continued service. Consolidated Rail Corp. v. I.C.C., 29 F.3d 706, 712 (D.C.Cir. 1994).

The aim of an offer of financial assistance under section 10905 is not simply the maintenance of rail lines, but the continuation of rail service. The Interstate Commerce Commission, the Board's predecessor, has held that "[t]hose situations in which a purchaser of rail properties has no affirmative plans for continuation or resumption of service, but merely holds out the possibility of continuation or resumption of service at some unspecified future time, are not properly to be considered offers of financial assistance and do not fall within the scope of 49 U.S.C. 10905.'" Borough of Columbia v. Surface Transp. Bd., 342 F.3d 222, 241(3rd Cir. 2003) (citing Abandonment of R.R. Lines & Discontinuance of Service, Ex Parte No. 274 (Sub-No. 6), 365 I.C.C. 249, 260 (I.C.C.1981)).

Yakima County and other Rail Commenters seek both restored rail service under a modified certificate of public convenience and necessity, 49 C.F.R. § 1150.21 and interim trail use under the Rails to Trail Act. However, the protesters have no current plans for rail service nor do they plan to establish a trail. Rather, they seek to cobble the two statutory schemes together in order to hold on the rail line in the hopes that someday there will be enough money to rehabilitate the line and that then some third party carrier will agree to operate it.

Yakima County does not want the line to go through an offer of financial assistance because neither the County nor any of the other Rail Commenters can do anything more at this time than hope for the possibility of continuation or resumption of service at some unspecified time in the future. There are no current funds to rehabilitate the line, no third party carrier, and no immediate plans for resumption of rail service.

If continued rail service is truly the goal, then offers of financial assistance should be accepted. If a sale under the OFA procedures does not occur, the trail use and public use processes may then proceed.

4. Yakima County has no intention to establish a trail under the National Trails Act.

Yakima County has no intention to establish a trail under the National Trails Act, rather, as stated in its Joint Protest, once the County acquires the line pursuant to a certificate of interim trail use the "County plans to negotiate an operating agreement with an appropriate operator." (Joint Protest, p.7). The County should receive a certificate of interim trail use only if it proposes to satisfy the purposes of the Trails Act, set forth at 16 U.S.C. § 1241 (2000).

The purpose of the Trails Act is to preserve rail corridors for possible reactivation of rail service by permitting and encouraging their interim use as recreational trails. See Policy Statement on Rails to Trails Conversions, Ex Parte No. 274 (Sub-No. 13B). Under the Act, third parties apply to the Board to use the right-of-way for temporary recreational trail use and rail banking. As part of this application, the third party agrees to accept financial responsibility, including any taxes, legal liability and management costs, for the right-of-way. By accepting such responsibility, the third party prevents an official "abandonment" of the right-of-way that would result in the interest reverting to the property owner and allows the Surface Transportation to maintain jurisdiction for potential reactivation for railroad use in the future. Then the trail developer can enter into negotiations with the railroad for the purchase of the right-of-way. If an agreement is reached and if the ICC determines that "public convenience and necessity permit abandonment" then a Certificate of Interim Trail Use ("CITU") will be issued. At this point, the railroad is allowed to discontinue service and the transfer of rights can be made to the trail operator, subject to the railroad's option to reactivate rail service in the future. See Preseault v. ICC, 494 U.S. 1, 7 (1990).

Although the County has offered to assume responsibility for management, payment of taxes, and legal liability for the right-of-way and agrees to return the right-of-way should there ever be a proposal to reactivate the line for rail service, it has not stated any intention to actually operate a trail. See 16 U.S.C. § 1247(d) (2000).¹

Essentially, the County proposes to continue to hold the line in limbo until such time as they have the resources to implement a plan. The status quo, under which the line has been out of service and in disrepair for seven years, does nothing serve the public convenience or necessity.

If the Board does issue of CITU to the County, Kershaw would ask that the Board establish terms and conditions requiring that the area actually be converted to trail use within a reasonable period of time. Kershaw is willing to allow its easement to be relocated to the perimeter of its property, adjacent to the highway, to facilitate the implementation of a trail. The cost difference between building a trail on the existing line and a trail in a new location should be minimal.²

² The costs of relocating or establishing new easements for public utilities would not be prohibitive. Kershaw maintains that there is no water main on rail easement on its property. The County has provided no evidence to the contrary. The only known "utility" along the line is a fiber optic cable.

CONCLUSION

Kershaw is seeking to abandon that section of the Naches Line which crosses its property so that it can be put to a useful purpose. The County and other Rail Commenters have hopes, dreams and wishes, but no feasible plan to either put the line back into service or to establish a trail for recreational purposes. Rather, they seek to hold onto the line until the day that they can come up with a plan and the financial backing to implement that plan. Kershaw respectfully requests that the Board authorize abandonment of the line.

Respectfully submitted,

Sarah Wixson

TOWN OF NACHES
PLANNING COMMISSION
REGULAR MEETING MINUTES
JUNE 2, 2003

The meeting was called to order at 7:00 p.m. by Chairman Nick Sloan.

ROLL CALL

Present: Chairman Nick Sloan and Commissioners Ted Silvestri, Earl Fisk, Rebecca Patrick, and Kit Hawver
Also Present: Administrator Jeff Ranger and Town Planner Bill Hordan

APPROVAL OF MINUTES

Commissioner Silvestri moved, seconded by Commissioner Patrick to approve as written the minutes of 5/05/03. Motion carried unanimously.

PUBLIC HEARING

Chairman Sloan opened the Public Hearing at 7:05 p.m. with the purpose of the Public Hearing to receive comments regarding a proposed change in the Urban Growth Boundary (UGB) for the Town of Naches.

Chairman Sloan requested Town Planner Bill Hordan explain a map that showed the town limits and current zoning with the proposed Urban Growth Boundaries.

Gale Grow, 9050 Old Naches Highway, questioned the relationship between being in the urban growth boundary and annexation. Mr. Grow asked if there is a possibility being annexed if he didn't desire to be annexed. After being told that it is a possibility, Mr. Grow requested not to be included in the Urban Growth Boundary.

Bill Sedge, 8961 Old Naches Highway, still had concerns about agricultural burn and use and at this time did not want to be included in the Urban Growth Boundary.

John Diener, 9200 Old Naches Highway, questioned the continued use of land for agriculture and livestock and zoning issues. Mr. Diener was undecided about being included in the Urban Growth Boundary.

Ted Schmelzer, 10208 Old Naches Highway, explained the benefit of being in the UGB and felt the landowners did not understand the benefits of being in the Urban Growth Boundary.

Kelli Mansfield, 9080 Old Naches Highway, inquired about burn permits in the Urban Growth Boundary and that changes from Yakima Clean Authority could happen.

There being no further comments the Public Hearing was closed at 7:32 p.m.

NEW BUSINESS

General Annexation Process

Mr. Hordan informed the Planning Commission of the annexation process and three scenarios adopted by Legislation. Election method, property owner method and the fifty fifty method. Mr. Hordan explained that staff was still in the interpretive mode.

Administrator Ranger said he would provide the latest annexation material from AWC to the Planning Commission.

OLD BUSINESS

Proposed Urban Growth Boundary

Chairman Sloan asked the Planning Commission members to discuss and deliberate the information presented in the public hearing.

Commissioner Silvestri stated that he believed the Finney property needed to be included in the UGB. Mr. Silvestri also stated that the UGB should extend to Allan road because this property would bring commercial value to Naches.

Administrator Ranger stated that the Finney's had been contacted in previous months and at that time they indicated they did not want to be included.

Chairman Sloan asked Administrator Ranger to contact Finney's and see if they have changed their minds and would be interested in being included in the UGB.

Rezone Request Status

Commissioner Hawver questioned the status of the Paul Ashley request for a zoning change.

Planner Hordan informed the Commission that a process had to occur for submittal of this request in the same package with the UGB requests.

Commissioner Hawver moved, seconded by Commissioner Patrick to adjourn the meeting at 8:20 p.m. Motion carried unanimously.
